Authors Note: I’ve been to the field about 6 times this year, most recently on April 1st. So far I’ve seen very little signs of activity, but there is not much excuse for that now. The weather is much warmer, and the winds have slowed down (5-8 mph on the first). In January, February and March the grass was short and dry, last week it was thicker, greener and moist, thick enough to be a little problem for light electrics. Probably need to cut it soon. This is all a sign that the new flying season is upon us. Let's get out and fly.

Again- as a reminder, I will probably be stepping down as newsletter publisher sometime before mid-summer and I'm hoping I can get a volunteer to take my place. Contact me- I can get you templates, graphics, etc to make it work. You will need a word processor program that you can convert the document to PDF for mailing to all. There has been some discussion as to a newsletter alternative, but nothing concrete at this time.
